SORONA® has a unique combination

SORONA®

Due to the excellent combination of properties

- Long-lasting
- stretch
- protection type

BIO - PDO

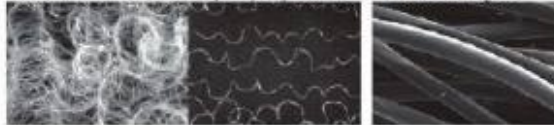

- Natural texture
- soft skin-friendly
- light breathable

Biobased performance advantages over regular polyester fibers

Sorona® materials have a unique "spring-like" molecular structure that gives

SORONA® bio-based fiber has natural 3D-cycling structure with more than twice the softness of the same size polyester fiber. Full and rich hand feel natural "small spring" molecular structure brings long-lasting comfort, elasticity and perfect resilience, making the cross section of the fabric crisp.

The linear molecular structure of ordinary polyester fiber feels hard, there is no fluffy feeling and no natural elasticity, and the fabric with spandex

Environmental/safety certification of SORONA® materials

SORONA Renewable Source Fiber is one of the first 11 Synthetic Biomas materials approved by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA)

SORONA® is certified for biobased content by the Japan Biomass Plastics Association

SORONA® fibers are OEKO-TEX 100 CLASS 1 certified, the most strict certification for the safety and environmental protection of materials used in children and children's products

SORONA® is a partner of the Blue Label System, which means that we are recognized as an active member of the sustainable textile industry chain
